Six things you can do to help Edinburgh...

As a provider of public transport in Edinburgh, we are aware of the impact our business activities can have on the environment. As a customer of Edinburgh Bus Tours, we ask you to consider the following six ways in which you could lessen your impact on the environment:

View Edinburgh from up Above

Our tours help you to reduce your carbon footprint by visiting the City's main attractions sustainably. Use Lothian Buses to get you across the city and suburbs on our newest buses.

Reduce, Reuse, Recycle

Reduce the waste you bring on the bus and support us in our efforts to recycle. Please hold on to your headphones and your tour leaflet during your visit.

Shop Local

Visit local shops and restaurants during your visit and help support local communities. The city has some fantastic locally sourced food and drink produce. Ask staff for recommendations.

Be Sustainable

Conserve water and energy on your visit to Edinburgh by switching off lights, closing windows if heating is on and turning off the tap when brushing your teeth.

Respect nature

Help us to look after our landscape and wildlife by using footpaths and cycle-ways around the city. Visit local nature attractions around Edinburgh such as Edinburgh Zoo, the Royal Botanic Gardens Edinburgh or Princes Street Gardens.

Support Green Businesses

There are many other Green Tourism businesses in Edinburgh who are working to reduce their impact on the environment. Visit www.green-tourism.com to find other accredited Green Tourism Business Scheme members in the area and hop off our tours to visit them.
